Jaeyeon Park is an Associate Attorney who brings a strategic, problem-solving approach to civil litigation. Demonstrating strong advocacy skills in a broad range of litigation efforts, he offers clients a thoughtful, analytical perspective and a strong understanding of real-world impacts resulting from his client's legal matters.

Born in South Korea and raised in the United States, Jaeyeon's interest in law was shaped by his own experience navigating the immigration system. That background continues to inform his commitment to advocating for his clients facing complex legal challenges.

Jaeyeon earned his Juris Doctor from Creighton University School of Law, where he received multiple academic honors, including the CALI Awards for Legal Research and Writing II, as well as the Frances M. Ryan Scholarship.

Before entering private practice, Jaeyeon served as a Staff Attorney with the Center for Immigrant & Refugee Advancement (CIRA), where he managed a high-volume caseload and represented clients in both immigration and state court proceedings.

He now focuses on civil litigation, representing clients in commercial, real estate, construction and business disputes. Outside of work, Jaeyeon enjoys running, playing chess, and watching international films.
